

When a fire starts, firefighters climb into their fire engines and drive to go put out the fire. Have you seen the big fire engines in your neighborhood? When you visit your local fire station for an open house, the firefighters will show you what their fire engines are like up close!

